With Patten Seven Lesser Figures in the Speculative Field were Indicted-Five Counts are Embraced in the Indictment which was Returned Late Friday by Special Federal Grand Jury.

New York. June 17.—The governits effort to prove that manipulating the cotton market is against the law. James A. Patten of Chleago and seven lesser figures in the speculative field, have been indicted, charged with conspiracy in restraint of trade under the Sherman anti-trust law.

Describing the inside workings of the alleged conspiracy, the indictment says that the conspirators were to become members of and engage in an unlawful combination, in the form of an agreement, under which they were severally to purchase for shipment from the south to New York all the cotton not directly absorbed by the demands of foreign and demostic spin-

LABOR SITUATION SERIOUS

ON SOUTHERN RAILROADS. All Efforts to Arrive at a Settlement Avail Nothing.

Washington, June 17 .- The labor sitwatton on practically all the railroads In the territory south of the Potomac and east of the Mississippi river, insofar us it affects their conductors and Trainmen, it developed today, is serious. Chairman Knapp of the interstate commerce commission and Dr. Charles P. Neill, commissioner of labor, the mediators under the Erdman act in labor disputes involving interstate traffic, today, at the request of the roads and with the acquiescence of the employes, began negotiations in an effort to settle the controversy.

The situation still is acute, notwithstanding the fact that mediation pro-teedings are under way. The demands of the employes inlarge increases in wages and important changes in working conditions. The employes involved the brakemen, baggagemen, flagmen and conductors; in fact, all thembers of the rain crews except the engineers and Negotiations between the roads and the men have been in progress for some time, but all efforts to arrive at a settlement were fruitless.

and as on previous appearances of the club the programme was given in a most commendable manner, drawing forth much applause and requiring several encores. The club had the assistance of the Academy Glec club, which proved a most successful feature, the singing by the young men meeting with a hearty welcome, so much so that they were obliged to give several extra numbers.

As usual, Eugene Wallner directed the musical club and his careful training of the participants stood out prominently, Sauvage's Serenade d'un Pierrot and a selection from "Lucia di Lammermoor," by Donizetti, being particularly well played. Galli's Scotch Patrol, although heard before, had to be repeated to satisfy the audience's demand for more. M. L. Aultman is the director of the glee club, which organization is proving an attractive feature among the young men, and that they are interested in it is shown by their good work.

WHAT SUCCESSFUL ADVERTISING IS!

Elbert Hubbard is one of the few men who know how to say things as well as how to do them. In the Philistine for June he has this to say of advertising:

"Advertising is the education of the public, as to who you are, and what you have to offer in the way of skill, talent or commodity.

"Let the truth be known about your business.

"The only man who should not advertise is the one who has nothing to offer in way of service, or one who can not make good.

"All such should seek the friendly shelter of oblivion, where dwell those who shrouded in Stygian shades, foregather gloom, and are out of the game.

"Not to advertise is to be nominated for membership in the Down-The Adscripts and the Adcrafts look to the East. They worship The Adscripts and the Adscratts look to the East. They worship the rising sun. The oleo of authority does not much interest them. They want the Kosmic Kerosene that supplies the caloric.

"A good Adcraftscripter is never either a philophraster or a theologaster—he is a pragmatist. He seeks the good for himself, for his clients, and for the whole human race."
